The RemTEC & Emerging Contaminants Summit convenes professionals, students, and thought leaders to tackle today's most pressing environmental science, remediation technology, and emerging contaminants challenges with cutting edge research and collaborative action. Hear essential information on technology, application, and policy affecting contaminated site restoration.

This prestigious forum is focused on quality, topical knowledge from highly regarded session chairs, professional presenters, and student posters. Unlike most environmental conferences, The RemTEC & Emerging Contaminants Summit is a highly worthwhile investment of time and money as it highlights cost effective site management and closure — not just theory and research.

Explore the future at The RemTEC & Emerging Contaminants Summit, October 14-16, 2025 in Westminster, Colorado. Engage in the excitement of this groundbreaking event and leave well-informed, enthusiastic, and connected with industry leaders from academia, government, site owners, private consulting agencies, and influential environmental professionals.
